Low-cost, actively managed, investment-grade corporate exposure

- Alpha and risk mitigation potential for 19 basis points (expense ratio).
- Portfolio construction anchored in belief that investment grade corporate market is inefficient.
- Portfolio positioning driven by risk-based macro outlook.

Portfolio construction framework

Investment guidelines subject to change. There is no guarantee that the objective of the strategy will be achieved.

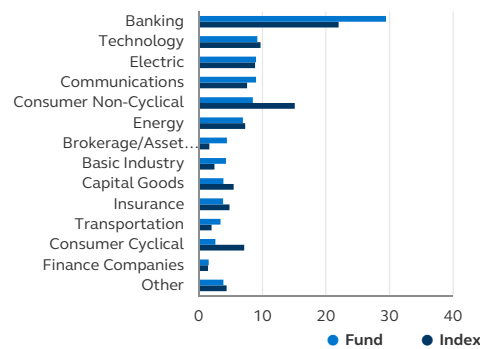

Why allocate to a portfolio:

- Replace benchmark constrained products with an active ETF that has risk-based investment process.
- Complement or replace existing active products with a low-cost ETF.
- Complement or replace existing passive products with an ETF designed to offer alpha potential and risk management.

Credit quality allocation (%)^{4,5}

⁵ Represents the middle rating of Moody's, S&P, and Fitch. When only two agencies rate a bond, the lower is used. When only one agency rates a bond, that rating is used. The ratings are an indication of an issuer's creditworthiness and typically range from AAA or Aaa (highest) to D (lowest). The NR category consists of rateable securities that have not been rated by a Nationally Recognized Statistical Rating Organization.

Performance data quoted represents past performance. Past performance is no guarantee of future results and investment returns, and principal value of the Fund will fluctuate so that shares, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than their original cost. Current performance may be higher or lower than the performance quoted. Visit www.PrincipalAM.com/ETF for current month-end performance.

⁷ Index performance information reflects no deduction for fees, expenses, or taxes. Indices are unmanaged and individuals cannot invest directly in an index.

⁸ The net expense ratio reflects contractual expense limits, if any, which may lower net expenses and cause the gross and net expense ratios to differ. In such cases a date is listed through which expense limits are expected to apply; however, Principal Exchange-Traded Funds and the investment adviser may mutually agree to terminate the expense limits prior to the end of the period. Returns displayed are based on net total investment expense.

¹⁰ As of December 29, 2025. The distribution yield is calculated by annualizing actual dividends distributed for the dividend period (monthly, quarterly, etc.) ending on the most recent dividend distribution date and dividing by the net asset value for the same date. The yield does not include long- or short-term capital gains distributions.

Alpha: The difference between an investment's actual returns and its expected performance, given its level of risk (as measured by beta).

Duration: The sensitivity of a fixed-income investment's principal value to interest rate changes. Yield to maturity: Rate of return anticipated on a bond if held until maturity. Standard deviation: Measures how widely portfolio returns have varied.

Returns shown for periods of less than one year are not annualized.

Risks: Asset allocation and diversification do not ensure a profit or protect against a loss. Investing in ETFs involves risk, including possible loss of principal. ETFs are subject to risk similar to those of stocks, including those regarding short-selling and margin account maintenance. Investor shares are bought and sold at market price (not NAV) and are not individually redeemed from the Fund. Ordinary brokerage commissions apply.

Fixed income investments are subject to interest rate risk; as interest rates rise their value will decline. Lower-rated securities are subject to additional credit and default risks.

Unlike typical ETFs, there are no indices that the Principal Investment Grade Corporate Active ETF attempts to track or replicate. Thus, the ability of the Fund to achieve its objectives will depend on the effectiveness of the portfolio manager.

Not authorized for distribution unless preceded or accompanied by a current prospectus, or a summary prospectus if available, that includes information about the fund's objectives, risks, charges, and expenses. Please read it carefully before investing.
